Part 1

Embedding Participation and Consultation within Your School-age Pedagogy

This workshop will investigate how Educators can involve young people through genuine participation and consultation within their school age program, to truly give them a voice. If you would like to empower young people and ensure that your programming is reflective of their needs, join us for this informative workshop. Educators will have opportunities to engage in reflective discussions, share their experiences and gain practical strategies to incorporate into their everyday practice.

Part 2

Physical Literacy in School-age Programs

Adults assume that young people are naturally active; however, current research is indicating this is not always the case as they are now engaging in high levels of sedentary behaviors and low levels of physical activity. Educators have an important role to play in supporting young people to develop the disposition to become physically literate and physically active. If you would like to engage in reflective conversations, join us for this interactive, hand-on workshop.

Part 3

Utilizing Shared Spaces in School-age Programs

Are you "living out of a cart" and trying to provide sufficient, appropriate materials to enhance the play experiences that you offer to the young people in your school age program? Is storage and having to rotate spaces and issue that you are regularly faced with? Is it difficult to highlight the work of the young people to make their learning visible in the spaces that you work within? If you have answered yes to any of these questions and would like inspiration in moving forward, this workshop is for you.
