Address one question or theme each day

Have students who did well on one question pair with someone who didn't and teach it to them

Make annotations on each test. After students read them they can conference with teacher to answer questions.

Help students identify only 3 types of problems they want to improve on for summative this could include strategies for test taking too -like reading the whole question and underlining key words

Have small groups work on one question together. Then they present to the class ways to improve answers on this question.

Groups would be mixed level for each question

Formative Test Re-teach solution

Show a few ways to solve the problem.

Students watch the video at their own pace. Can pause the video and rewatch parts

Make a video of each question and the correct way to do.

When students finish a video they can do practice questions and resubmit to teacher for feedback.

STUDENTS CAN CHOOSE WHEN THEY REWRITE TEST?

Just video with phone?

White board app

Find tech to be able to do this?

Put into a google slide to be able to access easily
