Summary of progress (Discuss concepts identified in the course, learning plan progress, skills)

Reem has met all required clinical competences for consolidation practicum. Her assessment skills have noticeably improved. She is able to care for 2-3 patients and in a timely fashion, prioritizing their needs based on acuity. Her time management is exceptional, having all charting done by morning medication pass. Reem performs a very thorough and accurate head to toe assessment. Her knowledge and critical thinking ability is enhanced as a third year student. She has become proficient in her systematic assessment and is able to identify abnormalities well. Reem gives an outstanding handoff report in a concise, clear and systematic manner. Her confidence has also increased and she communicates well with her patient, their family, and other members of the healthcare team. She provides care to her patients and assists around the unit in her spare time. She is a very hard worker with a dedication to caring for her patients.

Strengths (Things you did well consistently):

Clinical knowledge and critical thinking: Reem exceeds expectations in regards to her ability to understand the clinical picture of her patients and relate abnormalities to the status of her patient. She challenges herself to think outside the box and often times I find she is able to challenge the learning of herself, her peers and myself as her clinical professor. I am very impressed with her knowledge when performing skills and assessments.

Reem is organized, she has clear concise and accurate charting. She is kind and compassionate and has an excellent bedside manner.

She gives an outstanding handoff report and is able to present her patient with confidence in post-conference.

Areas for Improvement/Growth (Things you need to work on): Must be addressed in your learning plan for the next clinical experience

Continue challenging your learning and seeking opportunities for new skills.

To facilitate learning with auscultation, ask nurses on the unit to direct you towards patients with abnormal heart or lung sounds and practice distinguishing the differences.

You have done an amazing job this semester, continue working hard. It has been an absolute pleasure teaching/learning with you. Best of luck in fourth year. Congratulations on a successful semester!
