

Teaching using the Internet

How do we use it effectively?

Use the internet to help teach students information that you do not know yourself.

Teachers should incorporate technology with the idea of the SAMR model

Why is it Important?

It is a platform that brings people together with the same hobbies and goals

The world has become more educated and to keep our society educated is using the internet to find people who know what we do not.

The generation we teach today uses it in their everyday lives

Does it work?

"Outside of formal schooling, almost all learning occurs in complex social environments... Teachers who design for peer collaboration and individual reflection on learning cultivate stronger learning outcomes."

This is a quote written by Dr. Michele Jacobsen on his post on the Digital World

Computer jobs are on the rise as there is always a demand now for people with technology background.

With the rise of technology and the complexity of digital world expanding, students are becoming more in tune with technology
